Sterling . rehange was dull and steady at $4.8312 for sixty-day bills, and $4.8719 for demand. The total sales of stocks to-day were 259,929 shares, including the following: Canada Southern, 3.252; Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, 8,200; Erie, 13,875; Lake Shore, 11,110; Louisville & Nashville, 7,200; Missouri Pacific, 6,510; North-Western, 4,925; Northern Pacific, preferred, 5,946; Oregon Transcontinental, 6,100; Pacific Mail, 6,960; Reading, 33,200; Richmond & West Point, 3,625; St. Paul, 4,800; Texas Pacific, 5,319; Union Pacific, 4,662; Western Union, 8,500.

The stock market was extremely active and decidedly strong to-day, from opening to close, and again everything on the list made material gains for the day. London had some selling orders in the market at the opening, and the first sales were made at irregular changes from the closing figures of last avening, though declines were in a majority and extended to 21g per cent. The temper of the room, however, was builtsh, and the market became very strong immediately, and the opening prices on most of the list were the lowest of the day. Pacific Mail and New England developed marked estimates and however, and eith exercely a marked activity and buoyancy, and with scarcely a set-back during the whole session advanced, gaining nearly 3 per cent. East Tennessee seconds preferred, Denver & Rio Grande preferred, and Louisville & Nashvhis all followed with marked advances, and among the specialties, Chicago & Eastern Illinois preferred, Chesapeake & Ohio, and Big Four were very prominent, Missouri Pacific and Reading joining the procession later in the day, but the movement extended to all paris of the list and ceased only with the close of business. Much of the buying in New England was attributed to Boston, but there was a large attributed to Boston, but there was a large demand for the stock and it was easily the leader of the market. There was much realizing of profits on the advance, but the new buying was sufficient to absorb all the offerings, and still keep the list moving in the upward direction. The close was active and strong at the best prices of the day. The most marked advances were in New England, 23: C., C., C. & I., 13: Denver & Rio Grande preferred, and East Tennessee second preferred, 1's each; Pacific Mail and Chicago & Eastern Illinois preferred, 1 per cent., and others smaller

The railroad bond market was again very active, the session. The Chesapeake & Ohio issues were features of the day by reason of their activity and strength, all making marked advances. The currency certificates contributed $270,000 to the day's total of $1,375,000. The only other active issue was St. kansas & Texas seconds, which fur-hed $219,000. The remainder of the siness was quite evenly distributed. The most imortant gains were the Chesapeake & Ohio, series B pertificates, 37g, to 80; the fours, 33g, to 797g; Delaware & Hudson extension sevens, 2, to 1.10, and the St. Louis, Arkansas & Texas seconds, 238, to 4238. Sales of bonds for the week were $7,878,000 against only $5,261,000 for the previous week.

CHICAGO, Sept. 29 .- The excitement in wheat was at fever heat during the entire day, and a more nervous and anxious feeling was seldom witnessed on the part of operators. To one man it was pretty much of a repetition of what happened the past few days.

Trading was active, and the apparent determination to carry the squeeze in September through to the bitter end made operators apprehensive of what might the more deferred deliveries, and there was and firm and a fairly active trade is reported in these a general desire to cover and close up their trades for the months of October and December. "Shorts" bought freely, and there was not much wheat for sale lepartments. Leather dealers report trade brisk. Hide men say that trade is active enough, but prices rule so low that their margins are disappointing. The as compared with the inquiry. Orders came pour-ing in from all points to cover outstanding trades. The advance, in consequence, was very seed market rules steady with a good demand. sharp. The opening was about $\frac{3}{2} \tilde{D}$ Ic above the closing figures of vesterday, but a decline of $1750 followed for October, $1150 for December, and $1140 for May. There the decline was checked, and a steady advance of the contract of the day. September was irregular, in fact it was difficult to tell what the market was at times, though prices were advanced 10c above yesterday's outside figures, to $1.60: this price was bid and $2 bid later. Outside influences had no effect on the market. Corn was moderately active, and the feeling generally firm most of the session. Opening sales were a shade higher than the closing prices of yesterday; the mar-advanced 5cc, reacted 4cc, and closed with October 3c 2cc; November, 4cc, and May 4 3cc higher than yesterday. The influences on the market were entirely local. Large local operators buying quite freely of November brought this future within lec of October. Onto were dull. There was let le decline for all deliveries up to May, but that future did not change materially. Mess pork was active, stronger and higher. October was bought freely by "shorts." A better business also transpired in the more deferred futures, especially in January, which was sold freely by a prominent operator who is largely interested in wheat. The market opened 2 2 350 higher, advanced 25 350, receded slightly, but closed steady. Lard was in good demand for October, and the market was stronger and prices higher. Opened unsettled, advanced

.202.35c, receded .102.15c, and closed steady.

Short rib sides met an urgent inquiry from "shorts," and prices for October advanced .30c. Offerings in creased on the advance and values receded .100.15c

and the market closed quiet. The leading futures

The Trade of the Week Highly Satisfactory

The volume of trade in the week closing to-day is said by the merchants to have been highly satisfactory. On several articles weaker prices have ruled, but the real breaks have been few. Dry goods men have been very busy and on all lines firm prices prevail, the reported weakness East on some lines of goods not affecting this market as yet. Grocers are doing an excellent business. Sugars and coffees are a shade easier than in the early part of the week, but unchanged in price in this market. The supply of sugars is still limited. Other staple groceries moving out freely at firm prices. Provisions are firmer than in the early part of the week and there is quite a movement in a jobbing way. The four market is active and prices are stendily improving. The wool market drags; prices rule weak and the inquiry is limited. The produce markets are active; prices as a rule firm. Apples, potatoes and butter are in good supply, but with an improving demand prices are firm.

Receipts of poultry and eggs are not large for the season; as a corsequence prices are strong, especially on eggs. Iron, hardware and tinners' supplies are steady

IN 1840.

The Campaign of Forty Years Ago As De scribed at the Time by an Observer.

The following letter, sent to the Journal by a correspondent at Patricksburg, is an interesting echo of the excitement of the Tippecanoe campaign, and incidentally shows the great contrast between that period and this in the matter of the rapid dissemination of news: "COLUMBUS, O., July 23, 1840.

"My Dear Sir-I arrived home one week ago after a long and disagreeable trip of seven and a half months, and am happy to inform you that I found my family and friends all well.

"I suppose you think what I told you last winter respecting General Harrison's prospects and popularity will prove true. I solemnly believe that such a feeling never pervaded the people of the United States in favor of any one man as now prevails in favor of that good and virtuous man, Gen. Wm. H. Harrison. You know (of course) since I left your place that I have seen and conversed with a great many people-people that have but little to do with politics-people that work for a living, and you may depend that there is a voice among them to be expressed in November next that will make the office-holders and calumniators of General Harrison quall with fear and trembling. The whole Ohio river and its tributaries are alive with Harrison men, the boatmen, pilots, raftsmen, men at the wood-yards, deck-hands, and passengers, all-all (as you pass up the river) give one continual shout for Harrison. All the little towns have their log cabins raised as an emblem in honor and praise to the successful defender of log-cabins of the West. The wood-yards have their miniature log-cabins built upon stumps, with small flag-staffs run through the chimney, and at the top a small flag streaming to the winds with the inscription of 'Tip and Tyler.' The news from Louisiana (to those not acquainted) looks rather dark at present, but my wort for it, that it is as true a State for General Harrison as Ohio, Kentecky or Indiana. I wish you to write me a letter as soon as you get the returns of your county, and please send me a paper containing the final result as it regards the Governor's election. Our boys here are all waiting anxiously for the time to roll round to give their votes for Harrison, and we will get a good one and no mistake. " " Please accept by best wishes for your welfare. Respectfully, "Joseph P. Brooks. "To Thos. C. Johnson, Esq., Spencer, Ind."

THE LARGEST RICE-MILL.

An Indianapolis Company Furnishing the Machinery and Equipments for It.

The largest rice-mill in the world is now be ing erected at New Orleans, and the machinery for it is being furnished by an Indianapolis company, Nordyke & Marmon. It is expected to make a revolution in the rice trade of this country, and when completed it will be able to manufacture one-half the entire rice product of the country within its own massive walls. It is lucated on the leves of the Mississippi river, where it will be easy of access to the packet boats of that great levee, and switches will be put in connecting it with all the great railroads of the city. The building will be six stories in beight, 150 feet long and seventy-eight feet deep. In addition to this there will be a warehouse 150 feet long and fifty feet deep. In this can be stored enough rice to supply all the consumption in this country. In the elevator will be stored rough rice in bulk-something that has never been attempted before. Another experiment to be made in connection with the new establishment is the introduction of a new machine known as the Howard decorticator. It is a recent patent, is an unfoundered machine and has never been used in any way other than in experiment. The machinery of the entire build ing is to be of a massive kind. Ten sixty-inch hulling-stones will be employed. The capacity of the mill will be from eight hundred to a thousand barrels per day, which is equivalent to from three thousand to thirty-five hundred sacks. A 410-horse-power engine will furnish the motive power, and the building is also to be heated by an electric light of its own plant. It is expected that the structure will be completed within sixty

As is the case with many of the recently introduced industries into the South, the new mill is to be controlled almost wholly by Northern capital. The stock of the company is scattered, but among the principal owners are millionaire Drake, of St. Paul, Bremer, of Chicago, and R. C. Higgins, also of St. Paul, who is to be the manager of the company. Frank Walker, a young Southerner, is to have charge of the mill when completed, and is superintending its construction along with a representative of the machinists. He thinks that the rice industry of the country is espable of a much greater development than it is receiving in this country at present, and thinks that with the introduction of improved machinery this increased development will take place. The Indianapolis machine builders are also engaged in making the machinery for two other rice-mills to be located in New Orleans. They are of ordinary capacity, however, being about 100 barrels per day.

An extraordinary will was recently admitted to probate in Pesth, in which the testator, a physician named Goldberger de Buda, left his fortune-about 250,000 florins-to accumulate for the benefit of posterity, until, by the operation of compound interest, it shall be suincient to relieve destitution universally. And according to a calculation made by the testator his wishes may be carried out when the capital shall amount to the sum of 209,000,000 florins.

LAWYERS OF BYGONE DAYS

Their Relation to Tax Duplicates in a Time of Broad Horns and Big Wagons.

Some of the Merchants Who Were Also Called Upon to Pay Public Expenses on Account of Their Property Holdings.

In the last sketch of the taxation and condition of town property, in the traditionary age before the appearance of railroads, or any means of transportation but "broad horns" on the rivers and big wagons on the roads, a collection was made of the leading preachers, the editors and the doctors, and their property subject to taxes. Following up the same idea of grouping tax payers by their pursuits or professions, as far as possible, is a collection of the lawyers of this remote age:

A number of the largest real estate holders were merchants, or following some occupation having no connection with the bar. Before noticing them specially, it may be as well to note the general condition of the town in relation to property values and revenue. The duplicate of forty-three years ago-at the rising end of the long depression of property and business, as noted in the last sketch—shows a total of taxables, real and personal, of $997,-102, $486 of poll tax, $119 of dog tax, $3 for stray dogs. In searching the whole list for the largest tax-payers, it is found that Alfred Harrison, in his own right or as the representative of owners, was charged the heaviest sum on the auplicate. Of his own there was $5,900 resity and $350 personalty. As a partner he had $4,000 of personalty; as agent he represented $22,000 of personalty-in all $32,250. The late Hervey Bates, our first sheriff, held in his own right $19,700 realty and $800 personalty, a total of $20,500. Next came Nathan B. Palmer with $16,300 realty and $1,800 personalty, a total of $18,100. The fourth was John Cain, many years postmaster, with $10,600 realty and $2,500 personalty; total, $13,100. Fifth was James -M. Ray with $11,325 realty and $800 personalty; to tal. $12,125. It will be of some interest to a number of readers to see what sort of money-makers and cuitivaters our school-teachers of that remote period were. The oldest of these was Rev. W. A. Holliday, who occupied the Old Seminary from 1837 to 1838, immediately preceding Rev. James S. Komper, so widely known and honored by the "Old Seminary Boys." Mr. Hollkay was pastor the First Presbyterian Church here for two years-from 1832 to 1834-before he took charge of the Seminary.

This tax-roll, so far as it reproduces the assessments of the dreary era of "hard times," just lifting, and trying its wings before taking flight, will be interesting to those who have the means of comparing the property values then and now. The comparison can be better made between the two conditions of some special piece of realty, than between the aggregate of annual valuations, for in one case it is known accurately what influences have enlarged the value, and in the other the causes are too sweeping in extent and effect to be so accurately gauged in any movement. The more recent ts of the city who have heard some of the heavier tax-payers and their property discussed in the light of present estimates, and held high up among the tens of thousands, will feel a little inclined to a private grin at reading of these lots, and squares and building areas rated at very little more than the same space in a well cultivated farm. But, "boom" or no "boom," crash, or crack, or scaling bark only, in its adverse movements the city of Indianapois shows a growth since 1847 very like the rise of the tide-advancing, retiring a little, advancing further, retreating still less, coming up with a sort of rush or boom, ebbing slowly and waiting longer for another lift, but in the main sending the rising water further out and deeper all the time. No frantic speculator or more cautiously contrived "boom" is needed to establish the steady growth and prosperity of this city. No "boom" or speculative energy made it what it is, and no "back action" of either can unmake it, or any more favorable movement greatly aid it. It is growing because its situation compels it, and it has a start, like a rock rolling down hill, that goes faster the longer it

The Chicago Commercial Travelers to Mr. Jewett.

To the Editor of the Indianapolis Journay It seems that the Democrats of your city have not got over their schooling-1860-65-when they stood back out of range of the bullets and bellowed out their foul utterances against our government, and urged their dupes on to do the deeds they dared not do. If Mr. Jewett has said what he is reported to have said, he is unfit to be trusted by his fellow-citizens with any position of leadership. He, himself, stays out of danger, and shrieks about "big chips on Democratic shoulders," and of "broken heads," etc. What does this mean? It means encouragement to the worst element of both parties. And if there is any blood shed, the stain of that blood is on Chairman Jewett. He is the prime instigator. It is the privilege of American citizens to hurrah for their favorite candidate, whether he belongs to this party or the other, and why is it when the Democrat begins to feel that he is being beaten by a fair vote of the people he begins to scream "fight," "broken heads," "chips," etcl To the citizens of Indianapolis the Commercial Travelers' Club, of Chicago, feel very grateful for their cordial reception, and we are so well pleased that we may come sgain, when we can all come.

CHICAGO, Sept. 28. J. L. HOWE. THE SHAH OF PERSIA TO LEO XIII.

A Letter on Occasion of the Recent Jublice of Bis Holiness. Annals of the Propagation of the Faith. We have learned with joy that your Holiness, taking into consideration the fifty years of happy initiation into the sacerdotal service, is about to celebrate your jubiles. Regarding the friendly relations which we maintain with the venerable person of your Holiness, and considering the high dignity of the paster who is recognized everywhere as the chief of the Catholic religion, we have desired not to let such an occasion pass without offering you our good wishes and felicitations. It would indeed be inconceivable that under the present agreeable circumstances, when all eyes are turned toward the Vatican, we should remain indifferent on this point, especially when it is remembered that relations of friendship have, from times long gone by, been solidly established between the sovereigns of Persia and the 500 | court of Rome, and that our anxious desire is to continue and strengthen to the very utmost the foundations of this understanding.

We have also learned with great satisfaction that, thanks to the wisdom and intervention of your Holiness, the differences arising between the various nations have been smoothed away and a general peace has been everywhere maintained, and we applaud with the confidence which every one feels in the justice and innate probity enshriped in the venerated person of your Holiness, the triumphant results which you have achieved with regard to all difficulties that have been submitted to your arbitration. We will hope that with the grace of God your Holiness will yet for many years continue to exercise this disinterested mediation.

A Million-Dollar Church.

New York Press. The wealth of church property in this country is something enormous. The Fifth-avenue Presbyterian Church, corner of Fifth avenue and Fifty-fifth street, cost over $1,000,000. It is the largest Presbyterian church in the United States, if not in the world. The congregation occupying it is mostly wealthy. Col. Elliott F. Shepard is, of course, one of its conspicuous members. The money donated by the members and worshipers of this church for educational and benevolent purposes is something over $100,000 annually. Dr. John Hall, the pastor, takes a deep interest in the education and progress of poor children. The Doctor is a native of County Armsgh, Ireland. He entered Belfast College when be was only thirteen, distinguishing himself in his boyhood as a finished classical scholar. At the age of twenty he was licensed to preach. After a few years' faithful service as missionary in the west of Ireland he was chosen pastor of the First Presbyterian Church at Armagh. Subsequently he was called to preside over the Rutland-square Church in Dublin. In addition to his pastorate he edited the Evangelical Witness, and proved himself an earnest friend of popular education. Queen Victoria appointed him Honorary Commissioner of Education for Ireland, which position he filled most acceptably while he remained in Dublin. In 1867 he was a delegate from the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Ireland to the Presbyterian Church in the United States. After his return to Ireland he received a unanimous call to the Fifthavenue Presbyterian Church of New York. The Doctor is very popular with his people. Notwith-standing his scholarly attainments, in the pulpit and on the platform, his language is always simple and comprehensive.

SHE DISLIKED INTERVIEWING

But Her Husband Told The Reporter An Interesting Story.

A Happy Home Invaded-How the Terrible Invader Was Finally Repelled.

Many of the older residents of the city are acquainted with Mr. and Mrs. Montieth, who live on Pleasant street, No. 20, and who have made their home here for the past fifty years. They were married here, and they look back with delight to their sojourn among us. Their domestic happiness was unbroken until about five years ago, when the worthy wife, Mrs. Sarah Montieth fell under an affliction. Thedetails of it and the successful dispelling of the dark cloud are of absorbing interest. Mrs. Montieth did not like to be interviewed, but her husband told the story the other day to the writer as follows:

"During the years of our married life my wife had been uniformily healthy. Five years ago she became slightly troubled with what was thought at first to be

ONLY A SEVERE COLD.

"This, however, clung to her so tenaciously as to cause us considerable uneasiness. She complained of pains in her head, just above the eyes and in the back of her head. Her nose ran a great deal at first, but afterward became stopped up, first on one side, then on the other. At times she could breathe through it only with great difficulty. Her appetite was very poor. She

MRS. SARAH MONTIETH. ate scarcely anything at all, and lost rapidly in flesh and strength. She had a bad taste in her mouth of a morning, and would hawk and spit up muchs of a yellow and sometimes greenish color, which she said dropped into her throak during the night. This was at times streaked with blood. She had a bad cough, one of those hacking coughs, which seemed to distress her very much. She had also a pain in her side, a sharp, lacerating or STABBING PAIN, Which would attack her without the slightest warning and almost drive the breath from her body. There was also a sense of oppression on her chest, as though there was a weighty substance there. Last December she was taken with lung fever and was confined to her bed." Reporter - What measures were taken to

Mr. Mortieth-Five physicians attended her at various times, but they did no good. I was in despair of ever seeing her well again. She had had several bemorrhages from the lungs, which weakened her perceptibly. She had to wear plasters on her chest all the time. The physicians had given us no hope and we thought walk across the ro While reading the daily papers my attentio as attracted by a remarkable cure performed by Dr. Franklyn Blair, of 203 North Illinois street, and thought we would try him as a last resort. We did so and to our great gratification she began to improve. It was slow at first, but we persevered, and now we feel as though she was almost snatched way from the grave. "Sue does not suffer from her old symptom now. Her appetite is good and her sleep re freshing. She breathes freely and feels bette than she has in years before. In fact we co sider her virtually cured." Mrs. Montieth lives, as before stated, at No 20 Pleasant street, and will be glad to speak to anyone about her recent trouble. For Suburban Dwellers-GOOD HEALTH NECESSARY FOR ENJOYMENT OF
